Business District Land Too Costly For Parking Is Will Shaw's Opinion

By Raylyn Penney

The high value of Carmel business property, so often vexing to lessees, renters and prospective buyers, is cause for great satisfaction on the part of Will Shaw.

The Carmel architect, recently elected president of the Monterey Bay chapter, American Institute of Architects, says the recent rise in cost of Carmel land will help the city "by making it evident to everyone that this land is too expensive to place cars on. The cars therefore have to disappear, probably underground where space doesn't come quite so high.

"Car manufacturers' views to the contrary, as stationary objects, autos are less than attractive. Of much more decorative value are the trees and vegetation we could use at ground level once we get the cars underneath the buildings.

"But just for a start, before we begin any major changing, there's one way we could solve much of the present parking dilemma: ask all the people who work in Carmel to park their cars outside the business district, or outside the city, and walk to work."

(At this point we asked Mr. Shaw, who is a partner in the architectural firm, Burde, Shaw and Kearns, right downtown at Monte Verde and Seventh, where he parks his own car. "Front of the building, usually," he admitted cheerfully, and asked us where we parked ours. Same situation, we admitted. A little follow-through on the Shaw suggestion, and Carmel would be rid of two cars daily, we agreed.)

Will Shaw, an affable and thoughtful young man, is by virtue of his new position as head of the AIA here, and of his long interest in community development one of those people who will determine what direction Carmel moves in her continuing fight to retain her character in the face of encroaching change.

He is, on the whole, quite optimistic about this. "We're like a beautiful woman who'll never grow old," he said. "Carmel is still a better residential community than any other, though it would be fatuous to insist that all the changes made in recent and past years have improved her appearance.

"However, by thinking carefully of what we want to have happen, we can help the right things to come about. We are like a painter

Rose Report Says City Can Finance Parking Lots-But

In a report presented to the city council last night, City Clerk-Comptroller L. D. Rose stated the proposal of the Carmel Business Association that the city double business license fees for five years, also match the double fees with city funds for the same period, was a valid means of financing municipal parking lots if the city determined to pursue the plan despite obstacles and complex choices.

He projected a total revenue of $437,000 from this procedure at the end of five years and calculated that this amount might provide between 100-125 parking spaces, which might or might not be free parking, and for which the city might have to assume the cost of operation and improvement.

A special tax district might have to be formed to raise the city's matching funds, he predicted. This district migh mean resorting to parking meters, parking permits, hostelry taxes or property tax assessments, also require special zoning.

If the city were to raise its matching half, $218,000, from a tax levied on all lands in the city this would require a 26-cent tax for the five-year period on every $100 assessed valuation. On the other hand, the $218,000 might be raised by a tax of 84 cents levied for five years on a special district composed of the business area.

If bond financing were resorted to in order to raise $436,000 to be repaid in 20 years, Mr. Rose noted, the principal amount to be repaid each year would be $21,800; the annual interest might range from $15,260 to $763 and would in 20 years amount to $160,230; the total cost of principal and interest might be $596,230. The average interest rate on such financing he set at 3.5 percent. The

CITY POSITION OPEN

City Clerk L. D. Rose is seeking a replacement for Mrs. Lucille Ray, the city's administrative clerk.

Mrs. Ray has resigned from the city hall staff as she plans to make her permanent home in Hawaii.

Mr. Rose will interview applicants for the position, which will become vacant at the end of this month, during the day at city hall. Qualifications necessary are administrative experience, typing and shorthand.

The position is open only to women.

Raggett Asks Council To Levy Double Business Tax Licenses To Finance City Parking Lots

The Carmel City Council last night adopted for further consideration a study on the Carmel Business Association plan to finance off-street parking by doubling Carmel Business license fees, and heard a representative of the Carmel Business Association say:

"The Carmel business community is willing to assume its part of this burden and we ask you to tax us to this end."

The speaker, Ocean Avenue merchant Mark Raggett, expressed his confidence that the business fees were a reliable tax source because "downtown Carmel business will continue to draw despite outside shopping centers, if the city takes care of its golden goose.

"We have seen other cities spending to renew their business districts after the damage is done. We think this choice is much easier. We ask you to tax us, but the city should share some of the burden."

According to the Carmel Business Association plan, the doubled business revenues over a five-year period would bring in $218,000, which would be matched by the city from other sources, including residential taxation.

Speaking as a resident, Mrs. Dorothy Chapman followed Raggett's remarks by asking the council, "What guarantee would we have that we could go up town and park? The space we acquire through this plan might be taken up by cars from Carmel Unincorporated."

The city council also dealt with four new ordinances yesterday. It heard the first reading of an ordinance requiring hold-harmless agreements and insurance from businesses with sidewalk encroachments and referred the ordinance to a committee for further study. It adopted an ordinance regulating storage of supplies on sidewalks and streets and heard first

MPC Trustees Meet Tonight To Consider Override Election

Monterey Peninsula Junior College District trustees will meet in special session tonight at 8:00 o'clock in the library lecture hall to consider calling a special override tax election in April.

The override tax, suggested as 45 cents for a period of six years, would provide $4,708,753 to purchase the MPC campus from Monterey Union High School District and construct certain buildings, to be designated by the board on a priority basis as necessary to meet an expected MPC enrollment of 2,500 students in 1966.

Members of the MPC citizens committee for master planning were invited to this evening's meeting by trustees. The election committee of this group recommended the special override election.

Last week Dr. Brooks Lockhart, chairman of the MPC board of trustees, remarked that the board had "a possible moral obligation" not to levy an override tax for construction purposes before 1964 as Carmel Unified School District voters had been promised in 1960, when they voted to join the MPC district, that no capital outlay for the junior college would be needed for construction for four years.

Democrats To Honor Pierre Salinger At February 17 Banquet

The Carmel Women's Democratic Club will give a banquet on February 17 in honor of President John F. Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, who will be in Carmel as the week end guest of his mother, Mrs. Jerome Carlson.

The affair, open to the public, will also honor Mrs. Carlson, program chairman of the club this year, for her continued service with the Democratic group, according to Mrs. Edgar Viall, publicity chairman of the organization.

Tickets for the affair, which will be held at the Casa Munras, may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Saul M. Weingarten at MA 4-6564.

Norberg Objects To Re-Appointment Of Willox, Josselyn

The city council last night approved appointments to the arts comission of Geza St. Galy to succommission of Geza St. Galy to succeed Vaughn Schoemaker, and Glenn E. Kearns as a non-voting member, the first two terms to expire in 1965.

They also approved appointments to the recreation commission of Eben Whittlesey to succeed Jim Buffington, and Speirs Ruskell to succeed George Yates, both terms also for three years.

The re-appointment of Mrs. Florence Josselyn and George Willox to the Planning Commission was approved, too, with Councilman Gunnar Norberg dissenting because, he said, "I believe the Planning Commission should take seriously into account the need for site and size controls in the business district, and the commission so far has been unwilling to do this as it is now constituted."

Tonkin Arranges Honoring Of Former UC Vice President

Thomas E. Tonkin of Carmel, administrator of the Community Hospital, was in charge of arrangements for the presentation of a California State Senate Resolution of appreciation to Richard J. Stull, former vice president of the University of California, which took place this afternoon in Sproul Hall on the Berkeley campus.

The resolution, introduced by Senator Fred Farr of Carmel and Senator Hugo Fisher of San Diego, was unanimously adopted by the Senate last year. The presentation was made by Robert Gordon Sproul, UC president emeritus, and Senators Farr and Fisher.

The resolution cites Stull "for his numerous and meaningful contributions to the people of the State of California."

He trained 150 hospital administrators in UC graduate school, also conducted the first statewide survey of California hospital facilities and was instrumental in the master planning, financing and development of medical centers of the University of California in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Mr. Tonkin formerly served as his assistant.

CARMEL HIGH QUINTETS AT KING CITY FRIDAY NIGHT

As the Coast Counties Athletic League B-division basketball chase goes into the final game of the first round, the Gilroy Mustangs are still sporting a perfect record and have definitely established themselves as a strong favorite to win the varsity crown. San Lorenzo Valley and Carmel are close enough to threaten the Mustangs if they should get upset, but the Hagen-coached Gilroy lads appear to be the class of the league.

This week's action finds Carmel journeying to King City for a triple-header with the surging Blue and White aggregations. King City upset Pacific Grove last Friday, and looked good while clipping Coach Marty Baskin's gang. The Padres should be at full strength for the King City joust after being hurt by ineligibility and sickness woes. Tomorrow night's games with King City are "must win" games for both the varsity and lightweight squads, since another loss by either team would practically eliminate any present chances.

While Carmel and King City are trading baskets at King City, league-leading Gilroy will be at San Lorenzo for a crucial battle with the second-place Cougars. Pacific Grove is slated for league action at Gonzales, and Live Oak travels to Hollister.

PACIFIC GROVE VARSITY TRIMS CARMEL; PADRE LIGHTWEIGHTS WIN

Tuesday night's basketball action at the Carmel High pavilion was fast and furious with plenty of scoring and tense competition in all three games. The Pacific Grove junior-varsity edged the Carmel jayvees, 39 to 38, to set the stage for an entertaining evening of the hardwood sport. Carmel's lightweight gang bounced back from a pair of losses to clip Coach Charley Howell's Wavelets, 49 to 37, in a fast-moving game highlighted by the fine shooting of Richard Wise and Al Arndt. Carmel's varsity squad ran into a hot shooting Pacific Grove unit which hit on over 40 percent of its shots, and dropped a tense 67-64 decision to Coach Marty Baskin's hot-and-cold Breakers.

Pacific Grove's rebounding specialist, Bill O'Neill, turned shooter against the Padre varsity, pushing through 27 points in addition to snaring 20 rebounds for his side. The Padres dropped behind, 17 to 14, at the end of the first period, made several runs at the winners, but couldn't overhaul the hot-shooting Breakers. Jim Kelley, Carmel's 6-3 junior rebound artist, had one of his best scoring games, pouring through 19 points to lead the Padre scorers. Rich Shively and Pete Morse were strong on the boards for the local preps, but Pacific Grove's O'Neill was a tough customer to handle in this particular game.

Coach Harold Lippstreu's lightweight quintet shook off a scoring slump to post a comfortable victory over the PG Wavelets. The Little Padres parlayed 12-point performance by Rich Wise and Al Arndt with the strong rebounding of Jack DeWitt and Enborg Halle and the clever passing and playmaking of Jose Fernandez to put on one of their best efforts of the season.

In Tuesday night's opener, Carmel's junior-varsity came with a rush in the final seconds of the game, but missed by the margin of one point. Fine all-around play by Bob Wells, Stan Michelson, and Dave Harris highlighted the improved performance of Coach Clyde Klaumann's charges. Gaining much needed experience with every outing, the Padre jayvees are now a threat to any junior-varsity squad in the league, and figure to win their share before the season is finished.

PADRES WHIP GONZALES; LOSE TO WATSONVILLE

An outstanding come-through performance by big Pete Morse sparked Carmel High's varsity basketball team to a 48-41 victory over the hard-trying Gonzales Spartans last Friday night at the Spartan pavilion. With three regulars sidelined for the game, Coach Dick Lawitzke gave his bench a good workout and the reserves came through in fine fashion. Just about as expected, the Padres had control of both backboards during the entire game, as Morse and Jim Kelley each picked off 24 rebounds.

Fine close-in shooting by Morse gave him a game high of 20 points, while his running mate, Kelley, picked up 13 markers. Page van Loben Sels, Rick Baldwin, and Rich Shively filled in for the missing starters and each handled his position with poise and precision. Baldwin chipped in with six valuable points, Shively had five, and van Loben Sels meshed four. Gilbert DeSantiago topped the Gonzales scorers with 14 points.

Carmel's lightweight crew found a lid on their basket and suffered their coldest shooting spell of the entire season. The Spartan Babes upset the Little Padres, 26 to 22, and put the lightweight title up for grabs by any one of four teams. Live Oak, Gilroy, Pacific Grove, and Carmel are all in the thick of the pennant chase, with Live Oak holding a one-game bulge on the other clubs.

Showing improvement in all phases of play, Coach Clyde Klaumann's Carmel junior-varsity put on its best performance of the season to clip the Spartan reserves, 43 to 31. Freshman Don Thielin was the top shooter for the Padre jayvees, pumping in 11 points to finish as the top scorer in the game. Bob Wells and Dave Harris each garnered eight points, and both were outstanding in the rebound department. Wells snared 13 rebounds and Harris came down with the ball 12 times.

Saturday night the Padres took on the Watsonville Wildcats in a practice triple-header at the Wildcat gym, and all three teams received a valuable lesson as Watsonville swept the triple-header. Although dropping a 54-47 decision to the Wildcats, the Carmel varsity played a solid brand of basketball and was in contention all the way. Rich Shively (11), Jim Kelley (10), and Rick Baldwin (10) were the top shooters for the Padres, while Watsonville's Andy Pavley hit for 20 points to be the top scorer in the game.

The Watsonville lightweights raced to a 50-40 win over the Padre Babes who found the Wildkitten speed hard to handle. Moving with a blistering fast-break attack, the Watsonville lights meshed 23 field goals to 12 for the Little Padres. Ralph Ramirez pushed through 21 points to be the big man in the scoring department for the winners. Carmel's Al Arndt and Jose Fernandez each scored a dozen to lead the Red and Gray shooters.

Carmel's junior-varsity put up a stubborn fight before bowing to the Wildcat jayvees, 46 to 43, with Jerry Lefler, Stan Michelson, and Dave Meher leading the Padre attack. The rangy Watsonville quintet had control of both backboards and hurt Coach Klaumann's crew with easy two-pointers off the rebounds.

LOBO CAGERS UPSET SAN JOSE CITY COLLEGE

Coach Larry Cummins and his Monterey Peninsula College basketball team did everything right at the Fort Ord Sports Arena last Friday night, and when the shooting was over the Lobos had whipped league-leading San Jose City College, 57 to 52. Coach Cummins has been waiting all season for lithe Charley White to become eligible and, after watching the spring-legged leaper lead the Lobos past San Jose, it is readily apparent why the Lobos hoop squad needed him. White tallied a game high of 15 points and was also the leading rebounder on the floor.

The Lobos were down 10 points in the second period, but came with a rush in the fourth quarter to overhaul the favorites and hang on for the victory. Monterey's Les Neal enjoyed his finest night of the season, hitting for three clutch field goals in the winning fourth quarter surge and chipping in with four valuable free throws.

Friday night, the Lobos travel to Watsonville for a league tilt with Cabrillo College. Saturday night, San Benito JC visits the Monterey High gym for a rematch with the Lobos. In the last clash with San Benito, the Hollister gang dealt the Lobos an embarrassing defeat from which they are just now recovering. Arch-rival Hartnell provides the opposition for MPC on Tuesday at the Monterey High gym.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

The Monterey County Symphony Orchestra's third concert of the season on Monday night at Sunset School Auditorium had another full house, also a good house in Salinas the following evening.

Conductor John Gosling and the orchestra had worked hard to produce a premiere of Philippe Buhler's first symphony. Its length, which gave the impression of crowding and confusion rather than clearly defined lines, had its moments of punctuation and an effective ending, but for the most part gave evidence of search for modern combinations rather than music conceived inspirationally.

Music that wells up in the inner hearing irrespective of scale, mode or bizarre effects, and transmits sense and feeling in phrases that touch the listener with a spiritual import, seems unknown to musical composers who are influenced by the mood of the world rather than musical inspiration. But Buhler has made an ambitious and brave attempt, and a first symphony does in no way constitute the summit of a musician's possibilities. As witness of this is the history of some of the greatest composers.

Buhler will undoubtedly progress. He fully deserved the acknowledgement given him by both the Carmel and Salinas audiences and conductor Gosling. (As this is now the third of Buhler's compositions given by our orchestra, it is hoped that other composers on the Peninsula will in fairness be given perfomance of their works, since the proposed competition for the entire state does not carry out the direct encouragement to local musicians which was the main idea when the National Symphony League proposed encouraging neighborhood composers. Moreover, it cuts out composers above 35 years old. I express this as a member of the League and also of the National Critics' Association.)

Guest artists with the symphony, Joel Andrews, harpist, and Raymond Fabrizio, flutist, contributed a highlight in performance to Mozart's peaceful and seldom performed Concerto for Flute and Harp. The tempo might have been somewhat accelerated, but both artists distinguished themselves. The orchestra supplied a well modulated part, and the pure musical tones and phrases of harp and flute brought enthusiastic response for the graceful playing of both artists. Fabrizio we have with us, but hope Andrews will come again as there are few concert harpists of his calibre.

The Rhine Journey from Wagner's great music drama Gotterdammerung—The Twilight of the Gods—in which the orchestra did some good work, completed the program which opened with Copeland's Outdoor Overture. Following the concert, Gosling and the players were demonstratively recalled.

It was my privilege to witness the conducting of the San Francisco Symphony by 86-year-old Pierre Monteux last Friday afternoon at the Opera House. No conductor in the world today has had greater experience or greater honors. Now at an advanced age, he is permanent conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra in England, as well as a guest-conductor sought by every major orchestral organization. The full house greeted him on their feet, not merely in remembrance of his years as director of the orchestra, but in reverence for the great accomplishments of this man at a time when most persons of his age seek retirement. Like Michelangelo his art will never cease while he lives!

Talking to Monteux later, I was impressed by the youth of his face. He seemed the same as when I knew him 25 years ago.

During the performance, his alert and energetic beat was always that of the master with no unnecessary actions, and he produced an outstanding performance of the Brahms Tragic Overture, Schoenberg's Transfigured Night, Strauss' Dance of the Seven Veils from Salome, and Beethoven's Eroica Symphony.

August Johnson New Chairman Of Local Red Cross Chapter

The board of directors of the Carmel Red Cross, at their January meeting, approved a midyear switch in officers so that Chairman Edgar Bissantz could spend full time as blood program chairman. August H. Johnson, first vice chairman of the chapter, will head the chapter until the annual meeting and election of officers in June. The resignation of Mrs. Derek Rayne, who has headed the blood program for the past two and one half years, was the reason for the change. Mrs. Rayne will remain active in the program as a nurses aide and will assist in supervising bloodmobiles at Fort Ord.

Mr. Bissantz, in stepping aside from the chapter's top position, is doing so in order to devote full time to the blood program, and will attempt to rally more community support to supply blood needed by local residents who receive it without cost whether they are in local hospitals or in hospitals outside the area. Enlisting new first-time blood donors will be his prime objective.

The bloodmobile will be at the Carmel chapter on March 1 from 10:00-1:30 o'clock. Mr. Bissantz and the blood program committee are working for 130 pledged donors for that day in order to make the 125-pint quota.

Carmel Lions Help Start Eye Clinic In San Francisco

Carmel Lions Club has joined with 38 other Lions clubs in California and Nevada to establish the Lions Eye Foundation Clinic of Presbyterian Medical Center in San Francisco. The non-profit foundation starting March 1, will spend an estimated $41,000 the first year in the eye clinic, eye bank, eye pathology section, and orthoptics clinic areas.

Special services including hospital and operative care, corrective eye devices, and intensive treatment for particular patients also will be undertaken and financed by the 39 Lions clubs.

At a meeting of the Carmel club on Tuesday evening, Carmel Police Chief Clyde Klaumann, guest speaker, gave a lawman's view of recent changes in state law affecting the apprehension of juveniles and the dispensation of cases arising from charges made against juveniles.

Mother Alberta

Mother Alberta of St. Teresa, first superior of the Order of Discalced Carmelites and the founder of the community of nuns she has headed here since 1925, died February 1 following a brief illness. She was 92.

Mass was celebrated on Monday morning in Carmelite Monastery chapel, followed by funeral rites within the cloistered section of the monastery, with the Reverend Father Lawrence Farrell, chaplain, officiating. He was assisted by several Carmelite Fathers. Interment followed in the crypt beneath the altar.

As Virginia McLaughlin, Mother Alberta was born in 1870 and took vows as a nun in Boston in 1899. In 1910 she came to the Carmelite Monastery in Santa Clara, and 15 years later she made the foundation here at its original location on Carmel Point.

In 1931, on completion of the present building, the order moved into its present quarters along the coast between Carmel and Point Lobos.

Mother Alberta was preceded in death by six brothers. She is survived by a seventh, Mr. Beverly McLaughlin of New York City, who visited her here last year.

Labor Supports Conservationists In Fight To Get Upper Route For Proposed Highway At Lake Tahoe

By C. Edward Graves

For several years a controversy has been raging between those who would like to build a high-speed all-year highway on the west side of Lake Tahoe directly through two of California's most beautiful state parks, the D. L. Bliss and the Emerald Bay State Parks, crossing Emerald Bay on a bridge, and those who favor a realignment of the existing highway with improvements that would make it suitable for all-year use. Commercial interests at the south end of Lake Tahoe favor the low, somewhat faster route, and many engineers and politicians side with them. Conservationists have been fighting what at times seemed to be a losing battle for the higher route that would spare the parks and save Emerald Bay's great beauty from being marred by a bridge with the inevitable cuts and fills at the two ends.

Conservationists are now greatly heartened by a news release just issued by the State Division of Beaches and Parks, announcing that the California Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, has come out strongly in favor of the upper route. Thomas L. Pitts, secretary-treasurer of the 1,400,000 members of the Federation, has sent a masterly letter to the Division of Beaches and Parks—and it is to be hoped also the the State Division of Highways—analyzing the problem and pointing out that the only disadvantage of the higher route, now declared feasible by the engineers of the State Division of Highways, namely a few minutes of driving time saved and a small additional expense, are far overbalanced by the very obvious advantage of conserving the beauty of the two state parks and of Emerald Bay.

As time goes on and more leisure becomes available to the millions of California's zooming labor population, these parks in their unspoiled condition will be priceless for recreation purposes. It is cause for gratification that the officers of the California Labor Federation are far-sighted enough to realize this fact and throw their influence into the right scales.

Raggett Ask Council To Levy Double Tax For Parking Lots

reading of an ordinance simplifying the procedure under which employes of utility companies and other organizations are permitted to dig up streets for the laying and repair of mains and wires.

The fourth item, first reading of an amendment requiring council authorization to close planter spaces in sidewalks, also passed.

Other items on the council agenda included:

Passage of resolutions advancing Police Officer Peter G. Koenen to Step 3, Range 25, streetman John Molteni, Jr., to Step 3, Range 15 and streetman Robert W. Parkhurst to Step 2, Range 15.

Passage of several resolutions transferring funds and adjusting the budget for various projects, including purchase of the first three sections of the new band shell for Forest Theater stage, recommended by the Arts Commission and priced at $150.

Referred to a committee composed of the police chief, police commissioner and street superintendent a petition request for a stop signs from residents near the San Carlos-Thirteenth Avenue intersection.

Granted permission to Harrison Godwin, operator of the Pine Inn, to place 10 additional bay trees in planter boxes on the sidewalk in front of his hotel, the boxes to remain "at the pleasure of the city."

Adopted a report allowing several parking spaces inside the boundaries of the First and Mission Street Park, which is used primarily by members of the Carmel Seniors' Club, several members of which have heart conditions inhibiting them from walking up and down the hill leading to the street.

Denied a claim of $2,000 for personal injury damages from Mrs. Rellye Corwin stemming from a fall on the sidewalk at Dolores and Sixth Avenue. The council referred the claim to the city's insurance carrier.

Decided to direct a note of thanks to the Carmel Presbyterian Church for its offer to make available to the city its underground structure as possible emergency housing for city agencies.

Referred to the arts commission a request from Miss Blanche Tolmie and her Puppets of Carmel troupe offering to lease for one year the Theater-in-the-Ground.

Granted permission for use of the Forest Theater on Sunday afternoon, April 29, for a Girl Scout festival.

Adopted a report of the recreation commission recommending footpaths and rustic bridges for pedestrian safety and added attractiveness in the city park adjacent to the tennis courts on Lorca Lane.

Approved reclassification of Roy A. Walls as a fire engineer and a leave of absence for Randolph F. Lange of the administrative department.

Requested the street department to rebuild the fireplaces at the Forest Theater and screen them.

poised before a canvas. The canvas is the community.

"If the canvas is already soiled by an unfortunate background, then nothing placed upon it, no matter how beautiful in itself, will appear beautiful against such a background. In our background is the Carmel beach and bay. It can never be taken away.

"We can keep our standards high, knowing there'll always be people who will prefer to live here."

Stressing again the vast importance of planning to a community, Shaw said "This planning is suddenly so important because time is telescoped by technology. Prior to the 20th century, one generation would clear the land for the next generation to build on. At such a slow speed, we could give a lot of consideration to planning as we went.

"One man building a road will go the simplest way, the best way. It may take him a lifetime to build the road, but he will have had plenty of time for the planning.

"Now we're in the age of the bulldozer and we must do in advance all the planning our forefathers did as they went along. Before the bulldozer sets off, someone has to have planned where it's going to go. Terrible mistakes can be made without this planning, mistakes that can never be rectified."

The AIA chapter, organized in 1953, with a current membership of about 60, has had members on practically all the planning commissions, Shaw said. Last year the AIA did some significant work at both the state and local level on freeway problems, among other things backing Senator Fred Farr's scenic highway program which has made the Peninsula a focal point in the state on highway development.

One study committee of the AIA is concerned solely with the urban renewal program in Monterey, one last year worked on the Coast master plan. "Coming to the fore this year will be our work on area planning. We spent last year gathering data."

In addition to his position as AIA president, Shaw is chairman of the Carmel Highlands advisory board to the planning commission, vice president of the Monterey County Fair, a director of the Monterey Foundation, past president and present director of the Monterey County Citizens' Planning Association, and a member of the Area Planning Commission's citizens' core committee.

In a capsule account of his life and work before he and his wife, Virginia, moved to the Peninsula in July, 1951, Will Shaw said he graduated from the University of California in architecture in 1950, then did graduate work in design with Eric Mendelsohn at Cal. Prior to this, he had taken a degree at UCLA in 1941 at the age of 20, then been commissioned by the Navy, which he served aboard a troop transport as gunnery officer in the South Pacific.

He opened his own office as an architect in Carmel in January, 1955. Among buildings designed by his firm since then have been the Monterey Peninsula Airport control tower, the Vista Lobos Apartment House in Carmel, First Presbyterian Church of Hollister, Monterey Methodist Church, St. Timothy Lutheran Church in Monterey, Captain Cooper School at Big Sur, and additions to Carmelo School, as well as a number of private residences in and around Carmel and Pebble Beach. Burde, Shaw and Kearns are also architects for the Monterey History and Arts Association.

One part of Shaw's early life he touched on only fleetingly though intriguingly when he described his career during the 30's as a child movie actor.

"It was an experience," he said inadequately. "Actually, I was only trying to help my family through the depression. After that I quit."

More meaningful, apparently, were the impressions he gained as a youngster living in the growing Los Angeles area. "There were some interesting, even eccentric, little towns near where I grew up, all very individualistic—Hollywood, Beverly Hills, Santa Monica. They had lives of their own and their own idiosyncracies. Then the boundaries grew and grew till all the little towns grew together. Now I defy anyone to tell where one leaves off and the other begins.

"It's happening here, too. The Monterey-Pacific Grove boundaries have fused; Carmel may creep over the hill and join them. We too, could lose our indivuality this way. If we're not careful."

Further Litigation Arises Concerning Highlands Acreage

A Superior Court suit filed in Salinas on January 23 against N. J. D'Ambrogio of Carmel Highlands by A. R. Allamprese of Fresno is the direct result, according to D'Ambrogio, of his refusal to withdraw a foreclosure suit filed in May against Allamprese.

On December 30, 1959, D'Ambrogio states, he agreed to sell 121 acres at Carmel Highlands to Allamprese who said he planned to subdivide the acreage on the hillsides above Fern Canyon. The entire transaction was handled by Robert Stockbird of Fresno, an agent for Henry Thane Company, D'Ambrogio declares. Net return from the transaction, to D'Ambrogio, was to be $450,000, he says.

Upon payment of $100,000, D'Ambrogio released 19 acres in the Mount Devon area to Allamprese. Ten months later he released three more acres in the same area to Allamprese and received a payment of $15,000.

After a year and a half, D'Ambrogio reports, he consulted a Carmel attorney about a foreclosure on the rest of the property. During the year and a half, he insists, he tried with the attorney to work out the situation with Allamprese. Last May D'Ambrogio brought a foreclosure suit against Allamprese.

On January 23, Allamprese filed an answer and cross complaint against D'Ambrogio's foreclosure suit charging misrepresentation of the acreage, also asking recovery of the $115,000 already paid to D'Ambrogio, and cancellation of promissory notes on the balance of the $475,000 gross price of the 121 acres.

D'Ambrogio stated to the Pine Cone this week that through his attorneys, Landels, Weigel and Ripley of San Francisco, he is answering Allamprese's misrepresentation charges.

D'Ambrogio's home, Kent Manor, is situated on the property in question. He maintains that "Allamprese, by his own admission, is a developer of wide experience," also that Allamprese's misrepresentation and recovery answer and cross complaint "did not occur to him until I refused to call off the foreclosure suit."

Daryl Dawson Hurt In Cannon Explosion Still Hospitalized

Three Carmel Valley boys, injured last Thursday when a toy cannon exploded, are progressing favorably.

Daryl Dawson, 11, son of Carmel Adult School Principal, Chas. L. Dawson and Mrs. Dawson, is still a patient in the Peninsula Community Hospital following eye surgery.

Randy Sinclair, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Sinclair, is unable to return to school. He suffered cuts on the arms, legs and chest. Several pieces of metal lodged in his eyes. His mother says that tomorrow eye specialists will decide whether or not to operate to remove a piece of metal still in one eye. In the meantime, patches over both eyes prevent him from using them.

The Dawson boy was injured in the eyes by particles of metal. All but one were taken out with magnetic instruments. An operation was necessary to remove the remaining particle which lodged behind his eye after penetrating the eyeball. The injured lens of this eye was removed during the surgery.

Roger Chilson, received a head cut in the accident but is back at school. Fourth boy involved, Tommy Crowe, was not injured. All are sixth grade students at Carmelo School. The accident took place at the Chilson home. The boys overloaded the cannon with gunpowder before firing it.

Durell Decker Experiences Quiet Christmas In Florence, Noisy New Year's Eve In Rome

Since our story of Durell Decker's experiences in Vienna, she has had her twentieth birthday. A Carmel High School graduate, who has completed two years of college, Durell lives in youth hostels abroad. Her expenses are $50 - $70 a month. In letters to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Decker, she tells of her travels.

"I spent eight days in Vienna," Durell begins, "then left for Innsbruck, with a stopover in Salzburg.

"In Salzburg, I visited the Lanz dress factory which only makes peasant costumes, and every Austrian has several.

"I was told that high snow-capped mountains surrounded Innsbruck. I saw no mountains the day I arrived, but the following morning the sun shone brightly and I couldn't believe my eyes when I stepped out of the youth hostel door. Staring me in the face was a chain of some of the most glorious snow-capped peaks I have seen.

"While I was at Innsbruck, I got a ride to Munich and saw a collection of Toulouse-Lautrec's paintings which was on tour. I also got another ride from Innsbruck to Milan where I met an Israeli girl, Illana. A nurse, she spent the last two years in the United States and visited Carmel. I accompanied her to Venice and Florence.

"I was not impressed with the former city. It is dirty and nothing but a tourist trap. I spent a day seeing Venetian painters' work in the museum, and visited the Piazza San Marco. I saw paintings by Bellini, Titian, Tiepolo, Giorgione, Veronese, della Francesco, Montagna, Guardi, Longhi, and Tintoretto."

Durell spent Christmas Eve in Florence and had dinner with her Israeli friend. Christmas Day she describes as follows:

"We were kicked out of the hostel at 9:00 o'clock in the morning to fend for ourselves until 6:00 in the evening. Under ordinary circumstances this would have been all right, but on Christmas Day all shops and museums were closed, and you couldn't even window shop. Heavy iron grates were pulled down in front of the shops and windows were darkened.

"Illana and I went to the cathedral. The Archbishop of Florence celebrated the two-hour-long Solemn High Mass. The choir was lovely. Other hostelers went to other churches for the remainder of the day, but we visited some who had taken a pension for the holidays and chatted until 5:00, then headed for home. We walked, as bus service was discontinued. In Europe Christmas is a holy day, not one for giving presents. In Italy, it is strictly a day for going to church."

Durell's hostel in Florence was named Villa di Camerata. She observed that like many of the hostels, it must formerly have been a "magnificent" home. It was a colonnaded, galleried structure fronting on a formal garden, and the interior also was elaborate.

"One of the delights of Florence," Durell reports, "was the Uffizi Gallery which has one of the collections which encompasses Italy's history of painting. In another gallery we saw Michelangelo's sculpture, also Donatello's and Verocchio's, in addition to work by Bartolomeo, Della Robbia and Cellini. "As a relief from art, we spent much time in the market places of Florence admiring fine leather goods."

In Florence, Durell met two other hostelers she had previously met in Amsterdam. She and another girl decided to continue their travels together with the friends from Holland and they all left for Rome. They arrived in time for New Year's Eve.

"It was quite something," Durell reports. "Fireworks the like of which American cities will never see, lit the skies above Rome and lasted all evening.

"We walked out of the hostel about 11:45 o'clock. The street was completely deserted except for a policeman who herded us under the overhang of a service station. Five minutes later empty bottles of every shape and size, old dishes, anything of glass or pottery which could be flung was thrown out of every second and third story window on to the street. The deluge lasted for 20 minutes. After that a bottle found its way to the street below as soon as it was emptied.

"Needless to say, very few people try to drive cars on New Year's Eve in Rome. They would certainly have four flat tires. One cannot imagine the amount of glass on the streets. The situation was so bad that the street cleaners threatened to go on strike.

"We left Rome on January 2 for Naples where there was a beautiful exhibit for Epiphany, the day Italian children receive presents. One street, several miles long, was lined with figures depicting the holiday. These colorful, delightful figures were spaced about 20 feet apart. The most amazing thing was that every figure was different.

"The coastline from Rome to Naples was beautiful and much like home. Graceful umbrella pines tower above all else. Cypresses point skyward instead of spreading out. The Isle of Capri is much like being at Point Lobos. But home is the most beautiful place in the world."

Nick Hovick, Exuberant And Real, Sparks Pictures In The Hallway Presentation At Circle Theatre

By Jerry Brooks

Pictures In The Hallway, Paul Shyre's adaptation of a Sean O'Casey autobiography, opened at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre Friday evening and will run week ends through March 4.

Directed by Frederick Rider, the show is just what the title implies, pictures in the form of scenes. The actors sit on stools and read from scripts, cued on and off by spotlights. There is no plot or story with a resolution in the conventional sense. Go there expecting to see anything but pictures and you'll go away mad.

The pictures show aspects of O'Casey's youth in Dublin, the experiences of his first job, a love affair, his brother's narrow escape from death and, of course, the Irish Revolution.

Nick Hovick was exuberant and real as Johnny or Sean, providing consistent spark. Gertrude Chappell, veteran Peninsula actress, was competent as the narrator. (Incidentally, she sat superbly, and that's an art.) Marge Hirschkind as the mother should have projected more but she gave and gave until she became convincing through sheer sincerity. Pretty Renee Wurzman looked like one of Maeve's handmaidens and read with charming restraint and expression.

Subordinate players were Mark Vance, Earl Bozlee and William M. Fitzhugh, Jr. Each played more than one part. Flutist Jean Schafer provided background music.

There were some funny parts, showing Johnny's trials at his first job; for instance, when he brandished his knowledge of Shakespeare in order to show up a fellow worker who had called him ignorant. This brought him a kiss later from Alice, his heart's desire. We were left uncertain whether this was a reward for being cultured, or just victorious.

As a whole, the show needed polish. I think the O'Casey tendency to play literature's Barry Fitzgerald should be subdued. At times I felt as though my attention were being beaten into submission with a shillelagh.

It was interesting that O'Casey, once a cohort of Yeats and Lady Gregory, chose to mock the rebellion, perhaps because his autobiography was written so many years later. The revolt was presented as a schoolboyish and raucous affair, interrupted briefly by sex with a saucy colleen, like in America after football games.

INQUIRY FORUM MONDAY

Why a Catholic goes to Confession will be the topic under discussion at the Catholic Inquiry Forum at Carmel Mission Chapel on Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Father Walter Anthony, Paulist Missionary priest, will speak on the need for avowal, going to the right person for Confession, and the educational grace of the Sacrament of Penance.

The lecture-film series is designed for persons who wish to investigate the teachings of Christianity, or are married to a Catholic, or about to marry a Catholic; also persons who have not made their first Confession, received first Communion or the Sacrament of Confirmation.

There is no cost or obligation. Everyone is welcome. Further information may be obtained by telephoning MA 4-1271.

BELIEFS ARE NOT BORN THEY ARE DEVELOPED

All people seek spiritual satisfaction in one form or another. There is great satisfaction in being part of a religious fellowship which encourages but does not dictate your religious thinking. That feeling of being alone which many thinking people suffer: you don't have to have it. You aren't alone any longer.

Here is a religion concerned with building the good life now, for its own value as well as for whatever future there may be, for today's world and for posterity.

Public Invited To Free Film Show At MPC Tomorrow

The film, Shors, produced by artist Alexander Dovzhenko, will be shown tomorrow evening at 8:00 o'clock in Monterey Peninsula College Armory.

Produced in 1939, Shors is the epic of Nikolai Shors, who strove to liberate his native land, the Ukraine, during the Civil War of 1917-19.

The film has Russian dialog with English subtitles. Music is by Dimitri Kabalevsky with the Ukrainian State Orchestra.

Playing with Shors will be a six-minute film, The Strollers. This short features, in color, a lively folk dance performed by the Moiseyev Dancers, the company that made theatre history in its 1958 tour of the United States.

The public is invited by the MPC Evening Division to attend without charge. Jack Benson will introduce both films.

Reuben Rodrigues

Reuben Ralph Rodrigues, father of Mrs. Louise Artellan of Carmel Highlands, and an employee of a Carmel Valley ranch, died Saturday in a Salinas hospital at the age of 65 following a brief illness.

A native of Castroville, he was born October 24, 1896, and had for many years been connected with ranching in this area. At the time of his death he was employed as gatekeeper at the San Carlos Ranch in Carmel Valley.

He was a veteran of World War I, and a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. In addition to Mrs. Artellan, he is survived by a son, Ralph Rodrigues of Seaside; another daughter, Mrs. Mary Ann Tuck of Pacific Grove; a brother, Gene of Gonzales; a sister, Mrs. Vera Du Mont of Santa Cruz, and eight grandchildren.

Requiem Mass was celebrated yesterday in Carmel Mission Basilica, with burial following in the Catholic section of Mission Memorial Park.

Laura May Wilson

Mrs. Laura May Pearce-Wilson, beloved early resident of Carmel and the first teacher to many children growing up here early in the century, died Friday evening in a Pacific Grove rest home at the age of 96.

Mrs. Wilson, who was the wife of the late Philip Wilson Sr., came here to live in 1905 after having taught in Texas and Illinois public schools. There were no schools in Carmel then, and Mrs. Wilson privately tutored a number of children along with her own family of youngsters. Mr. Wilson died in 1943.

Born April 20, 1865, in Alhambra, Illinois, Mrs. Wilson grew up in the Midwest, and was married in Ballinger, Texas, in 1890. The sister of another pioneer Carmelite, the late Mrs. Mary L. Dummage who came to live here in 1903, Mrs. Wilson made her home for many years at Fifteenth Avenue and San Antonio Street. Mrs. Dummage died in 1952.

In addition to her husband and sister, Mrs. Wilson was predeceased by a son, Philip Wilson Jr., of Carmel and Carmel Valley, who died in 1959.

Another son, James Wilson of Burlingame, survives her, as do a daughter, Mrs. Grace Thoburn of Sonora, California; two nephews, Robert Norton and Leland Stallings, both of Carmel; a niece, Mrs. Mabel S. Linsley of Menlo Park; six grandchildren, and 11 great-grandchildren.

Final rites for Mrs. Wilson were held Tuesday morning, with Dr. Joseph M. Ewing of Carmel Presbyterian Church officiating in the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel, Monterey. Burial followed in Cementerio El Encinal.

Otto Smith

Final rites were held yesterday afternoon in Monterey for Otto Holland Smith, former Carmelite who died Friday in San Jose.

Mr. Smith, who for the past eight years had made his home in Carmel until a long illness forced his hospitalization in San Jose, was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on March 19, 1877. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War.

He leaves three sisters, Mrs. Jay Kruidenier of Decatur, Alabama; Miss Cora Smith and Miss Dee Smith, of Minneapolis.

The Reverend Victor H. Davis of the Church of the Wayfarer officiated at the funeral service. Interment with full military honors was to follow in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

FOUNDATION GROUP ELECTS

The Book and Arts Society of the Carmel Foundation will elect officers for 1962 at its February meeting Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, in the Carmel Foundation Town House. All members are requested to be present. Nelo Drizari, president, will speak on The Lost Continent of Mu.

GIVE ME THE SHELL

The pace is too slow;
No longer beckons
The meandering road;
The turnpike's call.
Wrap me in speed.
Let the stars be red
And green lights.
Catapult me
Into Heaven or to Hell.
Only snails creep
To death.
Give me the shell
Of a rocket.

—FRANK ANKENBRAND, JR.

PSYCHE

Yes, Cytherea, it is true
The soul needs love, a smiling face,
Some murmured words of gentleness
And courage in this woeful place.

And true the soul needs golden light,
The singing of the nightingale,
And fountains of compassion, else
Like flowers she might droop and pale.

But chiefy she needs solitude,
Without which she would be destroyed,
To drift a lonely star upon
The infinite, insentient void.

—WALDEN GARRATT

ALL THAT LIVES . . .

I have seen a sunset.
I have been alone.
I have experienced love.
I have known hate.

All life is the seed of death
Sustained by the thin breath of time
That here now becomes
A transient hope, wish, dream,
As tangible as ashes
Blown by my own breath
Through my fingers.

I have seen sorrow
Harsher than I can feel.
I have been aware of joy
Greater than my own being
The very earth has trembled
With the battlings and thralls of man.

And so I remain still
Now a being
With an eye, a hand and a heart
Who has yet
To see, to touch and to feel
All that lives.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The spiritual significance of events in the life of the Apostle Paul will be brought out at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon on the subject of "Spirit" is the Golden Text from II Corinthians (3): "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."

Paul's enlightenment is emphasized in reading from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including this citation (p. 324): "When the truth first appeared to him in Science, Paul was made blind, and his blindness was felt; but spiritual light soon enabled him to follow the example and teachings of Jesus, healing the sick and preaching Christianity throughout Asia Minor, Greece, and even in imperial Rome."

News From Malta

Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Bruggeman report that their daughter, Judy, who was married here, in June of 1960 to Lieutenant E. L. Fryberger, Jr., is enjoying life on the island of Malta as the wife of a Naval officer. Lieutenant Fryberger, an Annapolis graduate, is aide to the admiral serving under NATO on Malta, a tour of duty which will last till the middle of summer.

The Frybergers have had opportunities to travel in Italy, Germany, Greece, and Yugoslavia. Their son, Robin Mark, almost one year old, was born on the island.

Gardiners Fly to Honolulu

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Gardiner of Carmel Valley left Thursday for Seattle. After a weekend visit there with friends, they flew to Honolulu to spend a month.

Off on Mediterranean Cruise

At the moment suffering sore arms from pre-travel shots, but delightedly looking forward to their day of departure, Harriett Rider and Doris Brand will jet to New York February 17 on the first leg of a long awaited vacation trip.

After spending four days in New York, the travelers will board the S.S. Constitution for a 53-day cruise of the Mediterranean, including stops at the Madeira Islands, Gibraltar, Alexandria, Haifa, and other ports of call in Italy, Greece, and Yugoslavia. A day's visit at Malta will give them the chance to see Naval Lieutenant and Mrs. E. L. Fryberger (the former Judy Bruggeman of Carmel); and they will have enough time to look up friends in Istanbul and in Kotor, Yugoslavia. They also plan a reunion in Venice with Beth Knox, Doris Brand's sister, a Seattle music teacher now studying in Vienna.

With 53 ports of call behind them, Mrs. Rider and Mrs. Brand will return to New York for another two days, and will be back in Carmel by the middle of April.

TWO WEYGERS SHOWS AT CIRCLE

Alex Weygers will show his two latest collections of color projections at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre. Each of the two different series of pictures will be shown: Series I on February 16, and Series II on February 22, at 8:00 o'clock in the evening.

These new color slides bring a visionary experience, and are called by Weygers, Phantasmagoria, to describe their illusive subject matter.

Craftsman Creates Individual Jewelry At Golden Crucible

The Golden Crucible, a relatively new shop located north of the Dolores Street entrance to the post office, designs and creates jewelry in keeping with patrons' personalities and desires.

Herald J. Micander, the craftsman behind the shop's golden door, perfected his unusual technique in a San Francisco career that spanned 25 years. For ten years, as a commercial lapidary, he cut and polished precious stones to a finely finished product from their basic composition. Following this, in his own shop for 15 years, he shaped original designs in lost wax that ultimately evolved into individual articles of jewelry by use of the crucible.

He now offers Carmelites the benefit of this experience. Anyone desiring to have jewelry created may go to the Golden Crucible and discuss the matter with Mr. Micander who will sketch designs until a compatible one is found. Then Mr. Micander, using the techniques he has perfected, will create the desired jewelry according to individual taste.

Hall-Ahern Wedding

Mrs. Don Hall of Long Beach became the bride of Charles Darwin Ahern of San Francisco at a quiet ceremony in the Church of the Wayfarer on Saturday afternoon with the Reverend Victor H. Davis officiating. The couple's attendants were Mrs. Kelly McBean of Portuguese Bend, California, and L. W. Cosper of San Francisco.

A champagne reception honoring the bridal couple was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Wiethase in Rancho Canada, Carmel Valley, followed by dinner at the Mission Ranch.

Mrs. Ahern, a past president of the Parent Teacher Association of Long Beach, also was active in the Children's Theatre and the Long Beach Symphony Association. Her husband, during the 25 years he has been engaged in business in San Francisco, has been a frequent Carmel visitor. He is a member of the Olympic Club.

After a three-week honeymoon in Hawaii, the couple will live in San Mateo.

Mrs. Leidig's Granddaughter

Last week's story in this paper about Mrs. Clara Leidig's 40-year service to Carmel as an election board official omitted mention of an important member of Mrs. Leidig's family.

The list of her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren did not contain the name of her only granddaughter, 12-year-old Margaret Leidig, a student at Santa Catalina School for Girls, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Leidig.

George Surprised by Party

When Mr. and Mrs. George Leutzinger and 40 friends assembled at the Robert Ross home on San Antonio Street for cocktails Saturday evening, George may or may not have suspected that the party was connected with his birthday. To be sure, the living room curtains were completely drawn across the front windows, but that is not unusual at a late afternoon gathering. However, it wasn't long before all the other guests began drifting out the front door, and George was about to become the only person left in the room. At this point he decided to investigate.

Opening the door, he was confronted with the sight of a full-size bus parked in front of the Rosses' house. The party had moved into it.

Specially chartered for the occasion, the "wayward bus" turned out to be not too wayward to transport everyone to a no-host dinner at a restaurant in San Juan Bautista in honor of George's birthday.

Melissa's Birthday Picnic

A dozen River School sixth graders and a few grown-up guests spent a happy Saturday last week end down the coast in Rocky Creek canyon, hiking up the stream, playing games, and grilling hot dogs and hamburgers over a picnic fire.

The older members of the expedition were Dr. and Mrs. Rex Whitworth; Melissa's sister, Nancy Lofton, home for the between-semesters vacation at the University of California; Edward Feridany, the Loftons' houseguest; and Melissa's and Nancy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lofton.

Mr. and Mrs. George Blanks are seen, above, talking to the former's great-grandfather, Bishop Herbert Welch, shortly after he had officiated at their marriage in the Church of the Wayfarer on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Blanks is the former Lois Moore of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Bishop Welch, senior bishop of the Methodist Church, who will be 100 years old in November, flew from the East to perform the ceremony. He also christened George and officiated at the marriage of George's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Blanks. His daughter, George's grandmother, is Mrs. Anthony Blanks.

George and his bride will live in San Jose where George is a student at San Jose State College and Lois plans to continue her education. They met when George was stationed with the U. S. Army in Arizona.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Richard Brautigan, of Pacific Grove. Janice Moore, of Albuquerque, was her sister's only attendant.

Bert Blanks was his brother's best man. George's brother, Don, and William McCampbell were among the ushers.

Out of town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. George Holmes, the groom's grandparents; Mrs. William McCampbell and her children, of Sacramento; Miss Eleanor Welch of New York, the groom's great-aunt; and Mrs. Ada Coffman, the bride's great-aunt, of San Francisco.

Peninsula Art

Paintings of Sam Colburn, Carmel artist, are on display through March 2 at the Fredric Hobbs Gallery, 2264 Union Street, San Francisco.

The one-man show, entitled Coastal Image, contains 16 watercolors, mostly seascapes, and may be seen daily except Sundays from 11:00 to 6:00 o'clock.

Mr. Colburn went to San Francisco for the preview party for the show on Sunday. Other Carmelites at the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smithson.

Dr. E. Gunter Troche of the Achenbach Foundation will speak on the topic, Durer as an Engraver, February 14 at the Monterey Peninsula gallery headquarters of the American Federation of Arts on Lincoln Street.

On display at the AFA gallery is the Fitzhugh collection of Durer prints, recently shown at the Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco under the auspices of the Achenbach Foundation. The public may see the show, free of charge, daily from 11:00 to 4:00 o'clock until February 25.

An exhibition of painting and sculpture by Henry L. Pancher of Carmel will open at The Little Gallery of Carmel Mineral Arts Shop on San Carlos Street on February 16.

Mr. Pancher has exhibited in one-man and group shows at the Young Gallery, Chicago; Rotunda Gallery, City of Paris, San Francisco; Desert Art Center, Palm Springs; the Pebble Beach Art Gallery; Artists' Co-Operative, San Francisco; the Maxwell Galleries San Francisco; Galerie de Tours, Carmel; and presently at the Marquard Galleries, Lahaina, Maui, Hawaii.

The first American exhibition of paintings by Jean-Pierre Jolifie-Conin of Paris opens at the Laky Galleries on San Carlos Street Saturday, and will continue on display through February 28, 11:00 to 5:00 o'clock daily. An invitational preview of the show will be held tomorrow.

Jolifie-Conin, a landscapist, finds painting material in many places, including industrial suburbs and the countryside of France. He has exhibited with Le Salon de la Jeune Peinture, Le Salon d'Automne, and Le Salon de la Marine in his native land, France. His work has been purchased for French Government and City of Paris collections. He also has been awarded gold and silver medals. He studied at La Grande Chaumiere in Paris, later with Souverbie and Meitzinger.

Photographic prints of the California central coast region by Philip Hyde, conservationist-photographer, are on exhibit at Monterey Peninsula College in the library lecture hall through February 16, sponsored by the MPC natural science department.

A student of Ansel Adams, Minor White and Edward Weston, Hyde has made photography his life work. He has exhibited his work at the San Francisco Museum of Art and George Eastman House in Rochester, New York.

Philip Hyde is considered by his former teacher, Ansel Adams, as "one of the very best photographers of the natural scene in America."

The February exhibit at Town House on view every week-day from 10:00-5:00 o'clock during the month, shows the work of Crafts Guild president Mrs. Doris Ormsby. Mrs. Ormsby's block prints include printed fabric as well as pictures, and have natural form and color as their inspiration. Mrs. Ormsby lives in Carmel Highlands and is a member of the Carmel Art Association, where some of her work was recently hung in a one-man show. Not only are finished products on display at the Town House, but also the linoleum blocks used.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

Memorial services will be held for Cecil Frank Haskell on Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the Church of the Oaks, Del Rey Oaks.

Mr. Haskell, who died last Saturday in Salinas, had in his 33 years as a Peninsula resident become a well-known and loved figure on the Carmel scene, particularly noted for his long work as an actor and helper at the Forest Theater.

One of his daughters, Mrs. Betty House, now of Medford, Oregon, is a former member of the Pine Cone staff. He died after a short illness at the age of 96, leaving also another daughter, Mrs. Jane Betts of Palo Alto, and a stepdaughter, Miss Elizabeth Esterly of Cupertino. A notice of his death was carried by the Pine Cone last week.

Police Investigate Pharmacy Burglary, Theatre Robbery

Hampered by lack of evidence, Carmel police were still checking this week on two Carmel thefts, one case the robbery Sunday of $585 from a Carmel theatre employe, the other burglary of a pharmacy on January 27 of some $350.

Ben Barker of Monterey, who is employed by the Golden Bough Cinema, told police he was walking along Monte Verde Street south of Eighth Avenue about 11:30 o'clock Sunday evening after collecting the day's receipts and closing the theatre.

Someone stepped out of the shadows, he said, jammed a hard object into his back and grabbed a canvas bag carried by Barker and containing the $585. According to the police report, the robber was described by Barker as tall, young and slim with white shoes and dark clothing.

However, police said today, there is no way of identifying the money or the canvas bag and the description of the robber was too general to be of much aid.

Somewhat the same lack of clues has held back police work on the burglary, which took place at the Carmel Plaza Pharmacy between 9:30 o'clock the evening of January 27 and 2:30 o'clock the morning of January 28, which were times of the door checks made by Officer Walter Boyle. Similarly, the money is not identifiable, nor was anyone seen in the vicinity of the Plaza during the time the burglary could have been committed.

NORBERG UNDECIDED

Councilman Gunnar Norberg is still undecided about seeking re-election to the city council for a second four-year term in the April 10 municipal election.

He took out nomination papers at city hall this week but has not circulated the papers to obtain required signatures.

The signed papers must be returned to city hall before next Thursday noon if Mr. Norberg decides to run.

He told the Pine Cone at noon today that he is giving "serious thought" to the matter.

I KNOW A LITTLE HOUSE

WITH FLOWERS IN ITS HAIR and the Pacific Ocean at its feet. It's a friendly little house of indeterminate age, unpretentious, but sturdily built of stucco. From its windows or the deck you can enjoy the passing boats, the seals, and the sea, because there isn't much housework as your little treasure has small rooms and doesn't demand much attention. Fireplace, of course, because sometimes it's fun to cuddle up before it while you watch the moonlight on the surf . . . What? Oh yes. The price: $21,500. The terms: $5,000 down, $150 per month. The location: Pacific Grove. May we show you where?

$436,000 figure represents both the business license and city funds proposed to finance parking.

To provide the above bond financing by a property tax at present assessed values, he continued, the tax rate for the first few years would be 22 cents for all land in the city; or 71 cents for a special district. These figures, he admitted in the report, were conjectural and the sound financial reputation of the city would command most favorable interest rates if the tax base were broad enough and the parking program not overly ambitious.

Mr. Rose arrived at the total figure which might be provided by the Business Association's proposal by considering the 1961-62 fiscal year in which approximately $43,700 will be received by the city from all business license taxes. He multiplied this by five to predict a total sum of $218,000 as the Business Association's contribution to parking lot financing.

Matching funds from other sources, he projected, should produce an additional $218,000 and, upon superficial examination, it might be assumed that a total of $437,000 could be raised by some form of assessment.

However, he stressed, business license taxes are assessed by five different measures: gross receipts; flat fees; size of the establishment; number of employees; and weight of vehicles. In addition licenses are required of some businesses, occupations and trades which do not necessarily conduct their business from a fixed location in the city, for example, delivery services and contractors.

He suggested the double license tax proposal for all businesses might be amended to modify or vary the application of the tax according to the benefit derived. This would make gross receipts from business licenses something other than $218,000 during five years, also changes the amount of matching funds.

Appended to this statement in the report, was a table showing the 1961-62 dollar value of business licenses. The table estimated $16,250 business license tax revenue in the gross receipts classification; flat rate business license taxes: $5,110 from hotels, motels, apartments and lodgings; $2,330 from real estate and security brokers; $650 from out-of-town cleaners of clothing and furnishings; $7,250 from contractors; $20, employment agencies; $250, entrepreneurs; $280, garden, yard, spray and tree services; $40, janitorial; $250, out-of-town laundries; $20, manicurists; $50, piped music; $3,450 from persons in the professions; $40, public relations; $45, salvage; $180, home and business service; $350, tank wagons; $30, non-professional teachers; $150, theaters; $4,995, trucks; $100, TV antennae; $155, vending machines; $225, publica transportation. The total of both gross and flat business license tax receipts, $42,220.

This sum represents approximately 99 percent of total business license taxes anticipated for the 1961-62 fiscal year, hence the $43,700 figure Mr. Rose projected as the 1961-62 business license tax revenue for the city, or the annual amount the Business Association might be expected to contribute to the five-year double license-matching funds financing of parking lots.

To provide the city's matching funds, Mr. Rose stated in his report, there are not many sources of city revenue which could produe $43,000 in one year.

Possible sources he proposed were: a tax upon real property; parking meter revenues; parking permit revenues; parking charges for the use of parking lots levied either by the city as operator, or by a lessee; and a hostelry tax.

He reported parking meters would not realize above $10,000 a year; parking lot charges would only bring in $5,000 revenue annually; the constitutionality of parking permits is unresolved; the hostelry tax which would amount to $65,000 a year has been rejected by the city.

The most popular and widely-used parking laws provide for the levy of assessments on property in special districts, to pay principal and interest on bonds, he indicated. Ordinarily the special district is composed of the property to be benefitted by off-street parking, and in Carmel, the business district is the most logical area for such a special district.

In conclusion, Mr. Rose's report observed, "There is no doubt that the formation of a special district would complicate the matter, and yet a special district is the conventional and reasonable way to approach the problem."
